

ABSTRACT

A system and method for conducting an electronic auction has one or more carriers submitting one or more price quotes for goods or services in response to a request by a consumer who desires to purchase the goods or services.